Fulton County Historical Society

Fulton County Museum & Round Barn located 4 miles north of Rochester on Nov. 13-S. 31, open Mon.-Sat. 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Round Barn built in 1924 for Bert Leeds by C.M. Kinney & Sons, Rochester. Owned by Harold Portrudge 1972-75, owned by Larry Fuston 1975-1989. Damaged by tornado Sept. 1, 1982, the barn was given by Fuston to Fulton County Historical Society to move and reconstruct beside the museum. Historic Landmarks Foundation of Indiana loaned $40,000 for the project. A drive to raise $60,000 began in June 1990, as the loan must be repaid by July, 1993 so the money can be lent to another preservation project. Contributions over $50 memorialized with plaques in the barn.

Dedication of round barn June 30, Sat. 3 p.m. Bert Williamson, president of Historic Landmarks Foundation of Indiana will present the Sandy Sessions Memorial Award for outstanding program of preservation.
